VINNYTSIA NATIONAL TECHNICAL UNIVERSITY

VNTU is the unique University in Ukraine as well as among the Countries of New Independent States to introduce in 1991 the three semester study system, two semesters of which are conducted following the curricula, and the third is a working semester. During the working semester, the first year students obtain the working profession, corresponding to the future engineering one. The senior students are working on the enterprises independently, improving their qualification. VNTU – is a Ukrainian university specializing in applied technical sciences. The university has a research institute for ecological design and environmental protection technologies. The Institute supports international cooperation and practically-oriented education for the training of specialists in the environmental field.
